

Ogden Senior Elected Summer School Prexy

by Bob Edwards

Blaine A. Gardner and Fern Tovey were unopposed in last week's nomination assembly for the offices of president and secretary, respectively, and Joan Worsley, was elected vice president in Friday's student election for summer term.

Mr. Gardner is a senior from Ogden, who is majoring in accounting. He came to the BYU after spending two years at Weber College and serving for a period in the armed forces. He has been active in studentbody affairs as coordinator for the Student Election Committee and has served as president of the Weber Club and is a member of Blue Key.

Joan Worsley, a junior majoring in elementary education, comes from Temple City, Calif. She is a member of the A cappella choir and was a member of last fall's winning homecoming trio, the Silhouettes. Having been active in the Student Program Bureau and in student assemblies, she has been selected as music director for next year's assembly committee. She is also affiliated with Alkyone.

Fern Tovey comes from Malad, Ida., and is a senior majoring in English. She has studied at three other universities besides the BYU and since coming here has participated in the Spanish and Kia On clubs. She has worked on the Universe staff and was non-fiction editor of the Wyo magazine. Active in church work, she has served on her state Sunday School board.

Order of Business

One of the first orders of business facing the new officers, said the new studentbody president, is to draw up a complete program of student activities. The new council members will also serve on committees where student representation is needed.

The new council also issued a plea for additional student manpower. Anybody wanting to serve on the studentbody assemblies, the publicity committee, or the publicity staff should make their desires known at the student offices in the Clark Student Service Center. A receptionist is now needed.

Enrollment Hike Noted by Dean

The second week of Summer School, ending today, finds 1768 students enrolled, in some 330 courses.

Dr. Howard Reid, acting Summer School director, stated that this enrollment figure tops last year's by 12 students. Last year over 200 seminary instructors from all over the church came to BYU for special classes. Dr. Reid states that many special events, workshops, conferences, and clinics are functioning or being organized for the Summer School students. Day and evening classes are in full swing, he added.

BYU Marketing Graduates Awarded National Honors

Two Brigham Young University students have been named with the top marketing students of the nation for the second consecutive year by the Marketing Council of New York, according to Weldon J. Taylor, chairman of the marketing department.

Robert A. Lenberg, Minneapolis, Minn., was cited as one of the nation's top four students in marketing and was awarded $100 for his achievement. Robert W. Beinholt, Phoenix, Ariz., was cited as being among the next four students and was awarded $25.

The board of judges making the selection was chairmanned by George Gallup of the Gallup Research Institute, Princeton, N. J., and was composed of business executives of leading U. S. corporations. The selection was based on reports submitted by students of business in colleges and universities throughout the country. Mr. Lenberg's report dealt with food prices gleaned from a survey of supermarkets which compared prices between different

Moviediscount Cards Being Sold by IK's

A special summer issue of the Intercollegiate Knight's discount cards was announced yesterday as the cards went on sale at the southeast entrance to the McKay Building.

The 50 cents from the sale of the card will go into a general scholarship fund for students of the university.

Bearers of the cards will be entitled to special reduced rates of 30 per cent at any of the Intermountain Theaters, Incorporated, including the Paramount and Ufa in Provo.

Students who already have the discount cards may continue to use them until September 30, 1965, the expiration day.

Timpanogos Hike Scheduled For Weekend of July 16

Just as they have done for the past 25 years, several hundred summer school students along with others from all parts of the nation are setting aside Friday and Saturday, July 15 and 16, the dates set for the traditional Timpanogos Hike.

Sponsored by the Brigham Young University, this trek is considered the greatest community mountain climb in the world. It is designed for those who like to hike for the sheer physical enjoyment, and for the natural beauty of a healthy climb along majestic mountain sides.

Plans for the 44th annual hike are now well under way, according to J. Hart, chairman of the hike, prior to the hike at dawn Saturday morning.

Dr. Hart said the Tim Hike committee expects approximately 2000 hikers to start up the trail with about half of them reaching beautiful Emerald Lake, Summit Club badges for about 1800 hikers—the number expected to reach the summit—are being ordered.

Committees are being organized to handle the countless tasks involved in a successful hike, Dr. Hart said. Transportation to and from Aspen Grove, starting point of the hike, is also being planned.

Dream Home for Plants . . .

Botanical Laboratory Nears Completion

One of the most modern buildings on the Brigham Young University campus is now "essentially completed," Ben E. Lewis, associate treasurer in charge of building and expansion, said.

This building is the new $150,000 brick and glass Botanical Laboratory located at 8th N. and 6th East. Construction was begun last fall.

Designed in such a way that it can be added to easily, the building was sectioned into three major laboratory areas with accompanying work rooms and storage areas.

Bertrand F. Harrison, Botany Department head, stated

"the whole brick portion is designed to provide services associated with growing plants in the greenhouse. The labs are for that type of study which involves growing plants."

Other study plants not requiring greenhouse protection will be used for landscaping around the building.

One of the main features of the new building is the two-story blue-tinted glass window on the south side of the building, providing light for the main stairway and hall.

On the stair landing is a painting box which Dr. Harrison would contain a Joshua tree,

String Quartet To Present Concert Tonight

Music lovers of the campus will be happy to know that the Paganini Quartet still has four more concerts included on their summer program at BYU.

Tonight's concert is scheduled for 8:15 p.m., and will include selections from Beethoven and Turina. They will have as their guests artists Joseph Singer, horn soloist, formerly with the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra of New York City, and Richard Ballou, music instructor at the BYU since 1961.

Next Monday, at 8:15 p.m. the quartet will present the Allegro; Menuetto; Andante cantabile; and the closing Allegro from Beethoven; as well as Deside, Sicilienne, Grave and Finale from Chausson.

Their guest artists Monday night will be Mary Jones, violin soloist associated with the quartet, and Carl Fuerster, member of the BYU music faculty and well known pianist, composer, and conductor.

The two other concerts scheduled by this famous group of men will be June 29 and 30. Wednesday they will play Op. 18, No. 6 and Op. 132, both by Beethoven. Thursday's concert will include Debussy's famed Quartet in G Minor.

This will conclude the 66th concert to be presented at the University by the Paganini Quartet.

The concerts are held in the Joseph Smith Auditorium.

Seating Available For Church Tour

Reservations are still available for the Church History Travel Study Tour, July 30, according to Dr. Max Rogers, director of Brigham Young University Travel Study Tours.

Professor Evan J. Barrett, Religion Division, will conduct the tour and present informal lectures on church history and historic scenes during the tour. The group will visit the most important sites of LDS Church history and other major places of interest. Bill Cameron, Pageant will be one of the highlights of the 22-day tour.

College credit in religion or sociology may be earned.

For additional information contact Dr. Max Rogers, BYU, Provo, Utah.

cacti, Brigham tree, and perhaps other botanical representatives of southern Utah.

Large glass windows permit the maximum natural light in the laboratory. Other large windows in the inner portion of the building give a view of the grounds and the outdoor plantings from the main floor hallway. Most of the lower-level rooms also have windows.

Ample cabinet space is provided for students under colostee-covered ceilings. Two dome lighting windows will admit sunlight into one of the planting rooms. The walls are painted two colors.

CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

Summer quarter is in full swing and contrary to popular belief, especially by students who have never attended summer school, there is quite a number of activities on campus to provide cultural entertainment and relaxation.

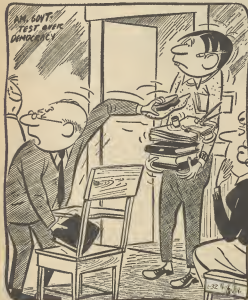

It is usually the opinion of students that a college campus during summer school is quiet because of a lack of students. This may be true on some campuses, but not at Brigham Young University.

With Leadership Week activities, campus conventions, musical renditions, drama productions, special lectures, pageants, assemblies, film classics, and dances students should have no complaints because of lack of entertainment.

Considering that all of these activities are scheduled in the short period of summer quarter, there is almost as many activities on campus during the summer as there are during the regular school year.

Dear Editor:

While I'm not the kind of person who likes to fill a newspaper column with gripes, I do have one observation to make about Leadership Week.

During the week I attended several classes which were exceptionally interesting. The lecturers were well-prepared, and the material most enlightening. But, thanks to some people I consider very rude, I found it hard to concentrate on the subjects at hand.

For one reason or another, people flowed in and out of classes with little or no consideration for those about them. They would enter the class room late, talk out loud to one another, and generally act as if they were the only ones in the room. Several times I saw girls use the Joseph Smith auditorium as a short-cut across the building while the instructor was trying to deliver his talk. This happened time and again, and, believe me, it was very disconcerting for those of us who try to be punctual and show a little respect for others.

In closing, let me say that with the exception of these inconsiderate souls, Leadership Week was everything I had hoped it would be. I would like to publicly thank the University for this great service.

M. A.

Dear Editor:

Unfortunately, there are a number of people on campus who are enjoying the classes for the first time. Within the last week I've attended four concerts by the Paganini String Quartet, and at two of these concerts the listeners have insisted on applauding after each movement.

These rather untimely outbursts not only unnerves the audience, but seems to upset the performers. This kind of blunder, while not particularly offensive, indicates to me that there is room for a bit of education along these lines.

Disturbed.

Noted Actress Cast In Three-Act Play

A three-act play, "Barretts of Wimpole Street" will be presented under the direction of Dr. Lael J. Woodbury, assistant professor of speech and dramatic arts, July 1 and 2 in the Joseph Smith Auditorium.

Flo French, well known actress visiting artist on campus during summer school, will star in the leading role as Elizabeth Barrett.

Tickets are now available in the Joseph Smith Information Booth.

Alumni, Emeritus Groups Elected New Officers

In recent elections held on the BYU campus, Lynn S. Richards was chosen president of the BYU Alumni Association, and Mrs. B. P. Larsen, president of the Emeritus Club of BYU.

Named to serve one year term, with Mr. Richards, as officers of the Alumni Association were the following: Steve Murdock, first vice president; Lois Jordan Lake, second vice president; F. G. Warnick, treasurer, and Ray Beckham, executive secretary.

Six new members of the Alumni Council, governing board of the Alumni Association, include George B. Boyack, Jennie Palfreyman Clyde, Frederick R. Hinzley, David Crawford Houston, Alta Hansen Taylor, and Grant S. Thorn.

The Emeritus Club, which is composed of alumni who attended the BYU or B.Y. Academy fifty or more years ago, held their election in conjunction with their recent alumni meeting on BYU campus. This meeting included the adoption of a proposed constitution, and a daylong program.

New Administrator Assumes Duties In Physical Plant

Brigham Young University's physical plant office appointed Walter F. Van Moorlehem to help with administrative work and department projects last week.

Van Moorlehem was appointed after having served four years with the Idaho Falls, Ida., city administration. During his term there, Van Moorlehem was superintendent of buildings and grounds and transportation for both city and district schools in the Idaho Falls area.

Prior to this, Van Moorlehem was a school teacher in Idaho, Utah, and in Alberta and Saskatchewan, Canada, during World War II, he served with the Canadian Army.

The new administrator has also attended the following colleges and universities in the United States and Canada: University of Saskatchewan, University of Alberta, Calgary Institute of Technology and Arts, Ricks College, Idaho State College, and Utah State Agricultural College. Van Moorlehem received his Bachelor of Science degree at Utah State, and shop certificate at the Calgary Institute.

The new officers who will work with Mrs. Larsen are Dr. A. N. Leonard, first vice president; John K. Walker, secretary-treasurer; and board members Amy Brown Lyman and Martin M. Larsen.

Biology Honorary Elects Officers

At a meeting of the Beta Beta Beta, international honorary biological society, Tuesday, May 23, elections for next year's officers were conducted. Lynn Blatter, Idaho Falls, Ida., was elected president; Wesley Hiltbrand, Idaho Falls, Ida., was chosen vice president; Joyce Riddler, Puente, Calif., was chosen historian; and Everett Haggerty, Woodland Hills, Calif., was elected secretary-treasurer. The announcement was made by Dr. Vasco M. Tanner, zoology and entomology department chairman.

The Brigham Young University chapter of Beta Beta Beta was organized in 1930 and has about 15 members on campus at the present time. The society has sponsored speakers during the past year who spoke in conjunction with next year's theme, "The sources, Natural and Human." Dr. Vasco Tanner is representative and counselor for the BYU chapter.

Campus Visitors Homeward Bound With Leadership Finale Today

Over 3100 Leadership Week "alumni" will return to their homes in all sections of the country tonight after five days of concentrated study, lecture and general activity on Brigham Young University campus.

Instructed and inspired by general authorities, special guest lecturers and faculty members, patrons of the annual adult education week will take with them the ideas and knowledge to supplement their positions in the auxiliaries of the church. With them also goes a glimpse of college life, and of the arts and sciences.

While attendance was somewhat under the 1954 record of more than 4,000, BYU officials indicated that in every other respect the week was as successful as any in the 32-year history of the event.

The variety and number of offerings in the scheduled activities was greater than ever. "Festival of Learning," which was the week, is indicative of the spirit of offerings of the program.

Innovations to the program were popular and in demand. The parade of women's fashions which were in accordance with LDS standards originally scheduled for one showing was repeated by popular demand. The show was conducted by Alice Wilkinson, wife of President Ernest L. Wilkinson.

Another class, a course in public speaking, developed almost spontaneously. So much interest was shown in public speaking Tuesday that the course under the direction of Cleon Skousen was added to the crowded schedule.

Two other innovations were a band and a chorus organized from among the Leadership visitors. Ralph Laycock of the BYU music department started the band and the chorus was directed by Newell B. Weigelt.

The steady schedule of classes during the week was interrupted by several kinds of entertainment to change the pace. Film classics were shown, and the famous Paganini String Quartet performed twice. Two-three act plays, "The Importance of Being Earnest" and "Hold On Thy Way" proved to be fine entertainment for the visitors as well as the regular summer students.

Climaxing the week's activities a dance will be held tonight in the Social Hall at 9 p.m. President Harvey L. Taylor, executive assistant to the President, will be the speaker in the last general assembly today at 9:45 a.m.

During the week, three general authorities have presented inspirational talks. Elder LeGrand Richards keynoteed Monday's assembly. Elder S. Dilworth Young spoke Tuesday, and Elder Marion D. Hanks addressed Wednesday's gathering.

Exhibits and displays are numerous and can be found in almost every building. Outstanding were the displays of audio-visual aids materials for teachers, the personal belongings of Joseph Smith, and the display of uranium. The miniature model of the Family Life building which will be built in the future attracted much attention.

Vast Intramural Program

Looking over some files while in the process of clearing out the old desk, we uncovered some interesting statistics; namely, those dealing with the intramural department and their huge program conducted during the 1954-55 school year.

According to figures received from the College of Recreation, Physical and Health Education, and Athletics, a grand total of 2,352 participants took part, while, among the team sports, some 166 teams were entered.

This is an excellent tribute to Bill Hafen and Florence Webb, directors of the men's and women's intramural staffs, and their assistants for tasks well done.

The men's intramural team championship, by the way, was won by the Hawaiian Club.

Boxing went over in a big way Monday night when Gene Fullmer, a home-grown Utah product, whipped Philadelphia's Gil Turner at the West Jordan arena. Fullmer, whose crowding tactics dunned the favored Easterner, gave a crowd of 10,000 something over which to cheer as he copped a clean decision from Turner.

While on the subject of the pugilistic sport, I notice that Rex Layne, also a Beehive State, will match leather with Big Bob Balor of Pittsburgh July 19 at the West Jordan ring in a heavyweight encounter.

If Layne can fight his way past Baker, the horizons look promising indeed for boxing in the mountain area.

Softball in Swing

For those of you sports fans who would rather be spending your nights out of doors during the summer months, may I suggest that you attend some of the evening softball contests held at Harmon Park?

Cougar Stars Glean Points In NCAA Track, Field Meet

Thoroughly convinced they had met some of the finest competition in the history of track and field, BYU's abbreviated track squad returned to Provo this week after participating in the NCAA meet in Los Angeles.

Coach Clarence Robison, who entered nine men in the nationals, labeled the trackstax as "the greatest NCAA track and field meet ever held." And the veteran coach and performer should know.

Considering the calibre of this year's college competition, the Brighamians fared very well. Chuck Higgins, Y javelin artist, copped fourth place, and Sherlad James finished fifth in the two-mile.

On the first day of the meet, Higgins came up with a throw of 232'7", a heave nearly seven feet better than the present Skyline mark. Chuck's throw also bettered the NCAA mark. But before the meet was over, no less than six collegiates had exceeded the record.

In the near-seen level air of the Los Angeles Coliseum, Sherlad James ran the two-mile in the time of 9:22, a good ten seconds faster than the Skyline record he currently holds.

A third BYU performer, Doug Spauldinger, tied with Cal Clark of Utah and two other athletes for six place in the high jump with a leap of 6'6".

Float Entries Due For July Fourth

All organizations wishing to enter floats in the annual Fourth of July celebration in Provo should contact Dr. Lloyd C. Whitlock, chairman of the event.

The parade will be held July 1 in the early evening, according to Dr. Whitlock, and a prize of five dollars will be awarded the best entry in the organizations class. Second prize will be $2.50.

Y Cagers List '56 Season Hoop Games

Brigham Young University's basketball schedule for the 1955-56 season was released recently, with the list of opponents shipping up as one of the toughest in BYU cage history.

The Cougar hoop schedule was announced by Dr. Edwin R. Kimball, athletic director at BYU.

"There is no doubt but what this is the finest basketball schedule we have ever had," stated Kimball. "Our opponents will be among the finest in the nation, and we don't feel there is a 'breather' on the list."

The 26-game schedule includes 14 home games to be played in the George Albert Smith Field-house.

Coach Stan Watts and his players will open the season with a two-game series against UCLA on the Provo floor. It will be the first meeting of the two teams since they clashed in the western regional playoffs more than five years ago.

The following weekend will find the Cougars facing another Pacific Coast Conference team, Oregon, in a two-game series on the BYU hardwoods.

Colorado, Big Seven champions and third place team in the NCAA playoffs this year, will complete the Cougars' pre-season home games with two tilts before the Provo fans.

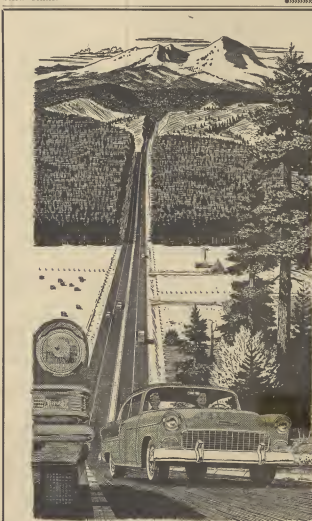

As usual, the Cougars will make their customary eastern junket. They will make their first stop in Raleigh, N. C., where they will play two games with powerful North Carolina State.

Next stop on the BYU road trip will be Detroit, where the Cats will participate in the Motor City Tournament. They will be competing with Penn State, Toledo and Detroit for the tourney crown. The Wattsmen will wind up the eastern swing with a game against Michigan University at Ann Arbor.

The Brighamians will be back in Provo on New Year's Eve to prepare for the opening Skyline Conference play. They will launch the league campaign against Montana on Jan. 6, at Missoula.

The schedule is as follows:

- Dec. 23 — Univ. of California at Los Angeles, Provo.
- Dec. 30 — Oregon University at Provo.
- Dec. 16-17 — Colorado University at Provo.
- Dec. 21-22 — North Carolina State at Raleigh, N. C.
- Dec. 27-28 — Motor City Tournament (Penn State, Toledo, Detroit), Detroit, Mich.
- Dec. 30 — Michigan University at Ann Arbor, Mich.
- Jan. 6 — Montana University at Missoula.
- Jan. 13 — Colorado A&M College at Provo.
- Jan. 14 — Wyoming University at Provo.
- Jan. 21 — Oklahoma City University at Provo.
- Jan. 28 — Utah State Agricultural College at Logan.
- Feb. 3 — New Mexico University at Provo.
- Feb. 4 — Denver University at Provo.
- Feb. 9 — USC at Provo.
- Feb. 14 — Utah University at Salt Lake City.
- Feb. 17 — Colorado A&M College at Fort Collins.
- Feb. 18 — Wyoming University at Laramie.
- Feb. 24 — Utah at Provo.
- Feb. 25 — Montana University at Provo.
- March 1 — New Mexico University at Albuquerque, N. M.
- March 3 — Denver at Denver.
